Youth Action Alliance and the Health Partners programme

The Grenfell Tower Trust is working in partnership with the NHS, Residents Associations and other community, voluntary and faith organisations to support communities in North Kensington in building a healthier future.

The aim of the Health Partners Programme is to:

- strengthen the wellbeing of individuals, families and the community
- improve the understanding of basic health information and services so people can make good health decisions

- develop and deliver services that are culturally sensitive
- engage with the community to help share health messages.

“Health Partners provides a fantastic forum to share information with key organisations and collaborate around vital health and wellbeing initiatives.”

Jamie Holyland, Youth Action Alliance Business Development and Fundraising Manager

What we do

You can contact Youth Action Alliance if you are a young person and need support and advice with your physical and emotional health and wellbeing.

We are currently working to:

- Help and support young people aged 8-19 and up to 25 with Lifelong Learning Difficulties and/or Disabilities living in the Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea.
- Support young people's personal and social development.
- Provide projects to improve young people's physical fitness and mental health.
- Provide activities to increase young people's economic chances in partnership with relevant organisations.
- Provide a drop-in facility for young people to socialise and explore issues of concern to them.
- Hold young people's happiness at the core of the service.
- Enable young people to increase their resilience, learn new skills and promote their ambitions for the future – whilst also having fun!
