Kensington and Chelsea Volunteer Centre and the Health Partners programme

Kensington and Chelsea Volunteer Centre is working in partnership with the NHS, Residents Associations and other community, voluntary and faith organisations to support communities in North Kensington in building a healthier future.

The aim of the Health Partners Programme is to:

- strengthen the wellbeing of individuals, families and the community
- improve the understanding of basic health information and services so people can make good health decisions

- develop and deliver services that are culturally sensitive
- engage with the community to help share health messages.
- "Health Partners creates a framework in which civil society organisations and their clients can co-ordinate better with each other and with statutory services to improve outcomes for local people."

Michael Ashe, Chief Executive Officer, Kensington and Chelsea Volunteer Centre

What we do

You can contact us if you need support and advice to help you with your physical and emotional health and wellbeing.

We are currently working to:

- Improve emotional health and wellbeing, firstly by prevention then through support and treatment
- reduce isolation by helping people to be more active and promoting the connection between good nutrition and positive mental health and wellbeing
- build resilience and tackle loneliness of individuals by encouraging them to volunteer

- help to develop a volunteering culture by working with other partners
- work with local health services including NeoHealth the local Primary Care network.
